HITLER RE-VISITS BLAST SCENE

Four Jailed as Kidnapers at Mt. Gilead

Boys Captured After Dayton Couple Escapes

Admit Forcing Man and Girl Into Car In Dayton, Driving 4 Hours; Pair Flees as Youths Stop For 'Gas' At Station In Mt. Gilead.

(By Staff Correspondent)

MT. GILEAD—Four youths, 16 and 17 years old, were in Morrow county jail today after they confessed kidnaping a couple in Dayton who made their escape here at 5 a. m. today.

The youths were captured walking on Iberia road, four miles north of Mt. Gilead by Deputy Sheriffs M. C. Griffin and William Cunningham, early this morning.

Their victims, Frank Schopler, 26, and his friend, Mary Bockrath, 19, both of Dayton, were in Mt. Gilead awaiting money for which they wired to return home. The four youths took $4 from Schopler, all he had in his possession.

The kidnaping occurred at 1 a. m. today in front of Miss Bockrath's home in Dayton where the couple had parked after returning from an evening's entertainment.

They were forced to accompany the four boys in Schopler's car, with Schopler lying on the floor, from Dayton to Mt. Gilead, authorities were told. Schopler said he and Miss Bockrath were threatened several times during the four-hour ride with knives wielded by the four boys.

When the kidnapers and their victims reached Mt. Gilead at 5 a. m., the men stopped for gasoline. Schopler said he yelled to Miss Bockrath to "run for it" and both leaped out of the auto and ran down the street.

Leave Auto Behind.

He said their action disconcerted the four robbers who then fled, leaving the automobile behind. Sheriff Oscar George said a knife was found on the floor of the car.

Deputy sheriffs found a rifle in a field on the outskirts of Mt. Gilead which the quartet had thrown away. Sheriff George said the youths told him they kidnaped the couple and took the machine because they wanted to reach Cleveland, where one of the boys lives. The others gave their addresses as Dayton, Cincinnati and Akron.

Dayton police said they would prefer kidnaping charges against the four after they are returned to Dayton later today.

Schopler, an employe of a Dayton manufacturing company, told the sheriff he and Miss Bockrath were parked in front of the girl's home when two youths approached the car, one of them asking for a match.

As Schopler replied he had none, two other boys came up and pointed a sawed-off rifle at him. The four then entered the car and drove to Springfield where a first stop for gasoline was made.

The Mt. Gilead filling station attendant told sheriff's deputies he heard a scuffle before he went out to the car but when he arrived only one man was there. He said the man asked him for cigarets. When he returned with the cigarets the man had disappeared, he said.

ARMISTICE DAY

American infantrymen whoop it up somewhere on the western front, Nov. 11, 1918, the end of the World war.

Twenty-one years later, French artillerymen push a gun into place on the same front as a new war gets under way.

Next Unknown Soldier— Will We Have One? When?

That's Vital Question on Armistice Day; Nation, State and City Mark Day That Ended World War.

From what battlefield will come America's next Unknown Soldier? And how soon? Will he die abroad in one more effort to "end all wars," or will he die somewhere in America to keep an alien power from setting aggressive foothold in this hemisphere?

In the vicinity of Washington, D. C., are the tombs of one or more unknown soldiers of each of America's major wars. In Alexandria, Va., on the Potomac, is buried the unknown soldier of the American Revolution — a shrine remembered by the historians but often forgotten by the public.

Not far from the Memorial amphitheater in Arlington lie the bodies of 63 unknown soldiers, Union and Confederate, whose bodies were taken from a mass grave at Gettysburg.

America's latest unknown soldier lies in an impressive white marble tomb in Arlington. His body was taken from the soil of France, where he had fallen in some major battle.

No man knows whose body lies in the tomb; on it is the simple inscription "Here Rests in Honored Glory An American Soldier, Known ut To God".

He was buried in the tomb 18 years ago today—just long enough ago for another generation of babies to have grown to soldier age. Never was a nation more solemnly committed to peace than on that Nov. 11, 1921, when this unknown soldier was laid in his tomb after giving his life to bring harmony to an angry world.

And the day after the Unknown was committed to his tomb, representatives of the United States and delegates of foreign nations sat around a peace table in Washington and heard the president's plea for world peace, to lay down their arms over the world. And all laid down a few—but warily kept enough to make certain they would not be beaten in the next war.

And today, 18 years after the burial of the Unknown Soldier, 21 years after the signing of the Armistice, Europe is at war; a war which may become a second World war.

Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington.

TODAY in Washington President Roosevelt placed a wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, honoring 60,672 American boys who died in the World war "to end all wars". He was accompanied by high officials of the army and navy and members of his cabinet, who took part in

Fuehrer Listens To Aid's 'Hatred' Funeral Oration

Chancellor Appears Unexpectedly at Rites For Explosion Victims; Hess Says Instigators Taught Germans to Hate; Press Flays Chamberlain.

(By United Press)

MUNICH, Germany—Adolf Hitler appeared unexpectedly today at the funeral of seven Nazis killed in Wednesday night's beer cellar bombing and stood silently, while the deputy fuehrer, Rudolph Hess, in the funeral oration, said: "The instigators of this deed have finally taught the German people to hate."

Hitler presumably came by airplane from Berlin, where he had been seen last night, and stayed only a few minutes. His attendance had not been disclosed in advance. The bomb which killed the seven whose funeral was held today, had missed him by only 10 minutes.

The hour chosen for the funeral was 11 a. m.—the hour at which the war to end wars ended 21 years ago in humiliating defeat for Germany and an anniversary of triumph for Germany's enemies, Britain and France, which they observed but half-heartedly. Why it was chosen deliberately was not known.

In Hitler's presence Hess said:

"The German people bid farewell to those who were victims of a terrible criminal act, whose intended victim was the fuehrer. Germany wil never forget them. Their death brought to the German people a realization of the extent and violence of what was planned against the fuehrer.

"To those who instigated this act, we say, 'you wanted to take the fuehrer from us but you only brought him closer to us. You wanted to weaken us but you made us stronger. Never was the German people surer of victory than today. And when you set in motion the forces of evil, victory is still ours. Our victory is in the memory of these dead.'"

The band played, Hitler raised his hand in a Nazi salute, bade farewell to the funeral entourage and left before the coffins were borne from the Feldherrnhale to the north cemetery, followed by members of the "blood banner" order—those Nazi veterans of Hitler's 1923 putsch.

The seven bodies had lain in state all night at the Feldherrnhalle and citizens had filed past continually in the light of the giant pylon inside the hall.

Morning German newspapers, inspired by the government, charged that Britain's Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain personally was the "mental inspirer and direct agitator" of the bombing, which wrecked the Nazi Buergerbrau shrine only 10 minutes after Hitler had left. He had made a 57-minute speech in celebration of the 16th anniversary of the illfated putsch.

Claim 'Guilt Proved.'

The newspapers, first of which to appear was the Berlin morning Zwoelf Uhr Blatt, listed 30 accusations against Chamberlain which they said "uncontestably proved his guilt."

"Mr. Chamberlain, you are summoned today before world opinion in order to have directed against you the most fearful accusation ever made against a European statesman," the article read.

"We state in advance the proof is so crushing that no court on earth could acquit you . . ."

The "30 points" included:

"You gave the (British) secret service a direct order when on the podium you stated, 'peace is impossible so long as national socialism remains. An end must be made of it."

No Truce On Nation's Gridirons

Armistice Day Sees Heavy Firing on College Football Front.

This was Armistice day, but they didn't cease firing along the collegiate and high school football fronts.

Top game of the day seemed to be the one between unbeaten and untied Texas A. & M., and Southern Methodist, defeated only by Notre Dame, but the midwest program featured a number of stellar attractions.

The clashes between Michigan and Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa and Northwestern and Purdue topped the midwest bill.

Ohio State performed at Chicago, but it was not a question as to which team would win. It was merely a matter of how many points the Bucks would score.

The biggest Saturday high school bill of the year was offered in this vicinity, with Mansfield and Canton McKinley meeting at Stadium field in the program headliner.

Madison played at Loudonville. Butler performed at Bellville. Galion invaded Shelby and Ashland was in action in Bucyrus in the other scholastic contests.

800 Acres of Forest Land On Fire In Southeastern Ohio.

BELLAIRE —(AP)— A forest fire believed to have been started by hunters burned over 800 acres along a three-mile front south of Shadyside and extending two miles west from the Ohio river. Half a dozen homes were threatened.

Bellaire, Shadyside and Powhattan fire departments helped fight the flames.

SET CORN QUOTA

U. S. Officials To Seek Cut Of 10 Per Cent In '40.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Farmers in the mid-west probably will be asked to reduce next year's corn plantings about 10 per cent, officials said today, in view of an estimated 1939 crop of 2,591,000,000 bushels.

The agriculture department's crop reporting board made the estimate yesterday on the basis of conditions on Nov. 1. It was 48,825,000 bushels larger than the forecast a month ago.

The corn planting goal probably will be announced next week and officials said a smaller crop would be necessary to avoid accumulation of additional surpluses. Farmers co-operating by reducing their planting will be eligible for benefit payments and loans on their surplus.

BOMBERS IN AIR

Seven U. S. Planes Leave Miami For South America.

MIAMI, Fla.—(INS)—Taking off at three-minute intervals, seven huge army bombing planes left Miami early today on the second leg of their good-will flight to South America.

ROLL CALL ARMY BEGINS 'ATTACK'

500 Volunteers Set Out Today To Enlist 10,000 Here In American Red Cross.

A volunteer "army" of 500 workers set out this morning to contact every adult in Mansfield and Richland county, in an effort to enlist them in the Red Cross for the coming year.

With an objective before them of 10,000 or more members, this "army" of workers will work through factories, business places and homes, and everywhere they will stress the fact that not since the years of the World war has the American Red Cross faced such an emergency as exists now.

With a major part of the world at war the Red Cross will attempt to bind up the wounds, to feed and clothe homeless refugees, and at the same time carry on its work as it always has in America, Roll Call workers will point out.

Every unit, every chapter, and every individual who belongs to the Red Cross, will have a part in this work during the coming year, L. W. Birch, general chairman of the Roll Call, told 150 of the volunteers last night at the annual Roll Call dinner at Senior high school cafeteria.

President Declares 'New And Better Peace' Needed

Tells Cadets Aim Should Be to Cause Men to Lay Down 'Weapons of Hatred' In Armistice Talk.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt asserted today the world needed a "new and better peace" than that at the end of the last World war—a peace that would cause men to "lay down weapons of hatred" and forego the "purposeless ambitions" which have created fear.

The chief executive set forth his peace aims in an address to the cadets of Virginia Military institute, Lexington, Va., on the 100th anniversary of the school. He spoke from the White House here by long distance telephone.

It is fitting, he said, to remember on this Armistice day that the only object of arms is to "bring about a condition in which quiet peace under liberty can prevail."

The president made the speech shortly after returning from Arlington National cemetery where he led the wreath-laying ceremonies at the tomb of the unknown soldier.

"In this season," he said, "we have been used to celebrating the anniversary of the armistice of the World war. Now we need a new and better peace: a peace which shall cause men at length to lay down weapons of hatred which have been used to divide them; and to forego purposeless ambitions which have created fear—ambitions which in the long run serve no useful end."

BARGE SINKS

Planes Consigned to British Slide Into Ocean Near N. Y.

NEW YORK—(INS)—A possible victim of saboteurs, a barge carrying two bombing planes consigned to the British air ministry sank off Stapleton, Staten Island today, plunging the planes into 30 feet of water.

Suddenly springing a leak before dawn, the barge, owned by the Merritt, Chapman & Scott Towing Corp., reeled over, sending the war planes sliding off the decks.

Only the wings, separate from the twin-engined fuselages of the planes, remained afloat.

John Hansen, only crew member aboard the Lighter, escaped from the barge just before it sank.

KUHN PREPARES RENEWED FIGHT

Bund Leader Answers 'Robber' Charges, 'Says 'There Must Be Some Mistake.'

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Armistice day for Fritz Kuhn served only today as a hiatus in his legal joust with the sovereign state of New York which persists in its shout of "robber" despite the alleged victim's murmur that there "must be some mistake."

With his trial recessed until Monday forenoon, Kuhn spent today preparing for renewal of his defense against charges that he, as fuehrer of the German-American bund, has been dipping into the bund treasury to pay such non-bund expenses as the transportation of Mrs. Florence Camp's furniture from place to place.

There are indelicate references to monies expended on or for Virginia Cogswell, the Miss America of 1925 but two facts stood out in the first day's testimony.

The state is the only plaintiff—no bund member or officer appears as complainant against Kuhn.

The bund position, as represented by James Wheeler-Hill and Gustav Elmer, ranking officers next to Kuhn, is that anything the fuehrer did, any manner in which he spent the bund's funds was and is all right with the bund membership.

Elmer made only one slight reservation—that Kuhn could not spend bund funds "on a woman." That was not a bund ruling, he said merely an understanding.

WILLS $500,000

Widow of Former Ohio Justice Left Riches to Museum.

ELMIRA, N. Y. — (AP) — The widow of an Ohio state supreme court justice, who died in a humble tourist home here, unknown and without friends, left an estate of between $400,000 and $500,000 to the Metropolitan museum of art for purchase of bronze statues.

The estate of Mrs. Edith Perry Chapman, widow of Henry Bardwell Chapman, was revealed in the Chemung county surrogate's court yesterday in a petition for probate of her will.

Children's Refusal to Salute Flag Heads For Supreme Court

PHILADELPHIA — The right of school children to refuse to salute the flag if that violates their religious beliefs—a right upheld yesterday in a unanimous decision by the third U. S. circuit court of appeals here — appeared today to be headed again toward supreme court review.

Legalists wondered whether the supreme court would reconsider its refusal to pass on the subject on the ground that no "substantial" federal question is involved.

The court took this position toward appeals from decisions by the highest courts of New Jersey, Massachusetts and Georgia contrary to the U. S. appellate court opinion of yesterday. This stand, in effect, upheld flag salutes, but the circuit court declares that the supreme court changed its mind when it assumed jurisdiction in the Mayor Frank Hague "free speech" case.

In any event, counsel for the Pennsylvania town school board affected by yesterday's decision announced that he would appeal to the supreme court.

The children, Lillian Gobitis, 15, and her brother, William, 14, were expelled four years ago and have had to attend private school. They believe, the court said, that to salute the flag is to "bow down to a graven image."

HOLLAND: Tense Dutch Ready To Resist Any Frontier Threats

(By Associated Press)

AMSTERDAM—The Netherlands and Belgium, squeezed between warring powers and the sea, prepared today for any eventuality.

Indicative of their forebodings were the following developments:

The Belgian cabinet, in a night session, was believed by observers to have decided its stand should the Netherlands be attacked;

It was reported that the Belgian frontier would be closed if Germany took any action against the Netherlands;

The United States consulate said it would advise Americans today to remove their wives and "dispensable" staff members from the Netherlands;

Foreign correspondents were warned by authorized sources at the Hague to limit their dispatches on defenses to material appearing in Netherlands papers;

The government planned to request a German investigation of Thursday night's border incident, in which one or two persons were reported shot on Netherlands soil and carried, with several others, into Germany by occupants of a German automobile.

Military measures, not officially explained, continued in both Belgium and the Netherlands. Belgium's mobilization was at a near-high of 600,000, while sections of the Netherlands' defensive water system were flooded.

Belgium, with men concentrated in the blockhouses and at the mined bridges along the Albert canal, announced the reopening of some canals in the north, between the Albert and the Netherlands frontier.

This was taken as a pacific gesture, since these canals form a direct route to Germany.

PARIS: Rains 'Zero Ceilings' Delays Expected Nazi Offensive

(By International News Service)

PARIS—Pouring rains and "zero-zero" ceilings, with fog reducing visibility to nothing, today held out the likelihood that the anticipated German offensive may again be staved off.

But the French attention continued to be centered on Belgium and the Netherlands, which the French feel still are menaced. Information from the low countries constantly is becoming scanter.

While today's first war communique announced: "There was reduced activity on the front during the night," it was learned that full battalions were used by both sides in the German attacks on the northeastern portion of the front mentioned in last night's official bulletin.

That communique said: "Two local enemy attacks, after making slight progress, fell back under our infantry and artillery fire."

In reality, these were merely large raids, but were classified as attacks, because they were supported by all types of fighting equipment except tanks and armored cars.

The fights were preceded by heavy barrages and accompanied by aerial observation under protection of fighting planes at a high altitude.

The Germans advanced about 500 yards as the French withdrew to their established lines of resistance. Then aerial dog-fights started, while French artillery pounded the lines the Germans had occupied.

Ship Transfer to Launch Torrid Congress Battle

CAPITAL HEARS 'BETRAYAL' CRY BY LAWMAKERS

Proponents of Arms Embargo Repeal Expected to Fight If Transfer's Oked.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — One of the bitterest congressional fights in New Deal history will result in January if President Roosevelt permits American shipping lines to ply the dangerous waters of the north Atlantic under foreign flags, responsible senate and house sources predicted today.

These sources declared that many congressmen were influenced to vote for repeal of the arms embargo by the pledge of administration leaders on Capitol Hill that American shipping would be kept out of marine combat zones, and these legislators are certain to feel that they have been betrayed if shippers are allowed to transfer their vessels to foreign registry.

They even envisioned a revolt of such magnitude that the arms ban might be re-written into law. At any rate, they asserted, confidence in the leaders would be so shaken as to effectively retard any major legislative administration proposals to the congressional session which convenes seven weeks hence.

This intensity of feeling on Capitol Hill was revealed as the heated controversy over application of U. S. lines to switch eight of its ships to Panamanian registry entered its sixth day. Already Senator Pittman (D) Nevada, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee; Speaker Bankhead, House Leader Rayburn and Rep. Bloom (D) New York, chairman of the house foreign affairs committee have openly opposed the application, some of them in conversations with President Roosevelt.

Other influential congressmen have condemned the U. S. lines proposal—and half a dozen similar applications sure to follow if it is approved—as a manifest attempt to circumvent the neutrality act, which was signed into law by the President just a week ago.

Bankhead and Rayburn expressed their opposition to the executive yesterday as Mr. Roosevelt deferred further any action on the U. S. lines application, which was approved "in principle" by the maritime commission last Monday afternoon. The following day the President declared there was nothing illegal or unneutral about the proposal, a few hours after Secretary of State Hull pronounced himself against it.

New President Named For Vets' Last Man Club

Floyd A. Tomlinson, Park avenue west road, will serve as president of the Last Man club during the coming year. He was elected to head the organization at its second annual meeting at the American Legion home.

The roster of the club is now closed with 50 members. It is made up of World war veterans of Mansfield. They will meet twice a year from now on, before each Armistice day and again before each Decoration day.

The club was organized last year. The "trophy" of the club is a quart of fine imported liquor which has been sealed in a three-sided glass case. With it is a roster of the members. The bottle will be kept in a private place and will be given to the "last man" who survives all of his fellow club members—which may be 50 or more years from now.

Other officers elected were Verne Castor, vice president; and Marion DeHart, secretary-treasurer. The first officers of the club, now retiring, were Russell Moore, president; Howard Newman, vice president; and Wilbur Hegnauer, secretary-treasurer.

More than 25 bright afghans wil be entered in the show, according to Mrs. Anna Fischer, instructor, and among them will be robes knitted by junior high school students and several women who are nearing the 80 mark. Among the latter is Mrs. Maria Bodenmeuller, 471 West Third street, who has knitted nine dresses and a number of afghans.

Four of Sheriff E. P. Long's five deputies were wearing new uniforms today with shiny buttons and badges 'n' everything. The new outfits are dark gray, in sharp contrast to the old light gray uniforms and are made of heavy whipcord to keep out the wintry blasts. The sheriff and his chief deputy, Frank Robinson, have uniforms but they won't wear them except on special occasions.

Hunting may be all right for big men, four-year-old Sandra Miller of 81 Chester street agrees, but not for little girls. Sandra accompanied her father, Marshall, on a hunting trip this week, and soon learned it was not much fun tramping through thicket and briar. After about an hour and half of toddling alongside of her dad, she decided she had enough. "Dad, I'm just all pepped out," she declared.

Already stocked with large mouth bass and shad, yesterday's addition included some 6,000 full grown rock bass and before long officials said another load of bass will be released.

ELECTED AFTER 3-DAY DELAY

Belated Returns Give Hunter Victory In County School Board Race by 39 Votes.

After a three-day delay in tabulating the vote for county board of education in Tuesday's election, Irwin Hunter of Bloominggrove township today apparently had been elected to the board by a margin of 39 votes.

Hunter was unofficially declared the winner over W. M. Ritchie of Troy township by the county board of elections after returns were received three days late from a district in Knox county which ballots on the county board posts.

The vote in Richland county alone gave Ritchie a slight margin over Hunter, but Hunter forged ahead as delayed returns reached the election board from overlapping school districts in Ashland, Huron, Morrow and Knox counties.

Hunter is the only new member of the five-member county board. He succeeds J. W. Snook of R. D. 4, Mansfield, who was not a candidate for re-election.

L. L. Rinehart of Sandusky township, president of the board, was re-elected Tuesday, polling the largest vote in a field of four candidates for two posts to be filled. C. L. Bloom of Shiloh was the fourth candidate.

Carry-over members of the county board are C. G. Tugend of Worthington township, Neil S. Robinson of Madison township and Leland R. Clever of near Shiloh.

SEWAGE PLANT OPERATIONS HIT 100 PER CENT AGAIN IN OCTOBER

Mansfield's sewage treatment plant operated at almost perfection both in volume of sewage treated and in the percentage of purification during October, the monthly report of operations submitted to city council today by Plant Superintendent J. R. Turner revealed.

The report showed that 100 per cent of all sewage entering the plant in October was given full treatment, as compared with 61 per cent during October, 1938. The plant also operated at 100 per cent last month.

Turner said the sewage given full treatment had a purification percentage of 95.5 per cent, a three per cent increase over the previous month. In October last year the percentage of purification was 71.

A total of 85,000,000 gallons of sewage entered the plant and was given full treatment last month, an increase of 5,000,000 gallons over September.

Operating costs at the plant which totaled $3,119 last month showed a $959 increase over September. Turner reported, due to the purchase of a carload of chlorine which is expected to last the greater part of next year.

Power costs at the plant decreased $30, from $902 in September to $872 last month.

He also reported 1,230,000 gallons of sludge on hand that could not be dried due to the lack of drying bed capacity.

2 AKRON MEN IN HOSPITAL AFTER CRASH NEAR CITY

Auto Overturns In Collision With Machine Driven by Mansfielder.

Early week-end traffic accidents last night in the Mansfield area accounted for the injury of five persons, while throughout Ohio eight persons were dead as inclement weather shot the accident toll upward. High winds, which reached gale proportions in some sections of the state, caused at least one fatality.

Most seriously injured in this area and confined to General hospital, are J. M. Irwin, 54, and Thomas Armstrong, 37, both of Akron, injured in a collision at 10 p. m. yesterday on route 30-N, at the entrance of Greters lake, west of the city.

Irwin suffered a fractured left arm and arm lacerations, and Armstrong received a fractured nose and lacerations of the face and knees. Irwin's condition was reported as "fair" by hospital attendants while Armstrong was expected to be released today.

Machine Overturns.

Both were passengers in a car driven by Eldon J. Morgan, 24, also of Akron, which overturned after colliding with a car driven by Paul Paraske, 24, of 8 Chester avenue, Mansfield, highway patrolmen said. Morgan told Patrolman Paraske was driving on the wrong side of the highway, and that he went off the edge of the road in an effort to avoid a collision. Paraske received minor cuts about the face. Lee Heib, 54, and Ben F. Morgan, both of Akron, also riding with Morgan, were uninjured.

Paraske reported to Sheriff E. P. Long that $23 was taken from a pocket of his coat which was in his car after the accident.

Chester Hampton, 28, of 101 Lily street, was treated at General hospital for a dislocated right shoulder, received when his truck overturned three miles east of Mt. Gilead on route 95, at 6:30 p. m. yesterday.

Wilbur Springer, 39, of R. D. 4, Salem, received treatment by a Mansfield physician for cuts and bruises and chest injuries, suffered when his car skidded on the wet pavement and struck an embankment on route 30 near the Richland-Ashland county line, at 4:15 p. m. Friday.

H. A. Boviene of Willard, escaped injuries when he drove his car into the side of a moving freight train at the B. & O. crossing on Bowman street at 6:30 p. m. yesterday. Boviene told police he saw the flashers working but did not see the train.

Among the dead in the state were George D. Mowery, 38, of Dunkirk who was killed when a tree fell on his auto near Kenton, and Mrs. Ella Smith, 67, of Bowling Green, who was killed in a crash near Wauseon that injured six others.

William A. Carney, 34-year-old Youngstown councilman, was hurt fatally when his auto plunged off a highway near there, and in Springfield, Richard Bostwick, 7, was killed when an auto struck him. Eight-year-old John Summers of Alliance was killed near his home when a tree fell on him during a gale.

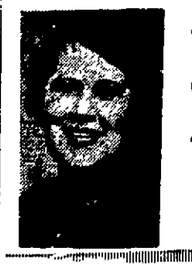
Not That It Matters



There Are So Many Things We Need to Remember on This 21st Armistice Day

—By JANE WILLIAMS

SOLILOQUY at the Doughboy Monument: I wonder if you, who stand here in white granite, eternally facing the east and the rising sun, know that this is the 21st anniversary of the day you laid down your arms and wondered tiredly how long it would be before you could go home. . . . And if your eyes can see beyond the clouds to those green fields where the dead of the World war, forever young, dwell, perhaps you may know what they are thinking today. . . .

When they marched away they carried their ideals like a plume on a crusader's helmet, so sure that they were fighting for the rights of free men, and to make the world a happier and safer place, and free from wars forever after.

Do they still believe they died for an ideal? Or have they heard bitter reproaches welling up from below them that they died that the international bankers might be saved? And because America was not courageous enough nor sane enough to stay out of a war? Do they know now that they died for a lost cause and their sacrifice was futile, and that all manner of hatreds are running wild over the very ground that they sanctified with their young blood?

Could you make them understand that the great masses of American people went into that war honestly and sincerely and with the highest of motives, but that—well, nothing much ever came of it. . . .

Except death and debt and devastation and rancor and smoldering hatreds.

And if they, in their green fields beyond the rising sun, do know and understand all of these things and are young enough not to harbor bitterness, we stumbling people down here must appeal to them again. We need the memory of their gallant youth as it spilled out over the red fields of France and Belgium, we need to remember how useless it all was, so that today, on this Armistice anniversary, we will stand firm in our determination not to go into another war. We need to remember them as our faces are turned again toward another European war, as the Four Horsemen ride again, the first of which is "a pale horse, and his name that sat on him was Death, and hell followed with him."

And Doughboy, when your living comrades march tonight in the Armistice parade, let's pray that you and I and all of us are looking at our last generation of American war veterans, that after them, there will be no more.

* * *

OHIO'S Mr. Bigelow, like Germany's Mr. Hitler, believes in rule by a small organized minority. The fact that 75 voters out of every 100 did not approve his pension plan, does not deter him.

His bitterest wrath is loosed on the free press of Ohio, and he wants to do away with it. Knowing full well that there can be no dictators, no totalitarian government in a land where there is a free press and that America is the last stand of an unfettered press, he still would do away with it—all because the press didn't agree with his crack-brain schemes.

And we think that the Communists and Facists are the only dangerously subversive forces in America!

* * *

THE MOST unforgivable phase of such schemes as the Bigelow pension plan was its delusion of old people. Such schemes get them all worked up over something that looms up shiningly splendid and then when the bubble bursts, their lot is drearier than ever.

Sometimes I think the American people have gone absolutely berserk over getting something for nothing. The easy-money madness is a left-over from the bootleg era that followed the World war, but the something-for-nothing mania has had its inception in the present federal administration. It has spread out and grown up into such funny Americana as bingo, bank night (and HOW I would like to win a jack pot!) wah-hoo night, ham-'n-eggs schemes, $30-every-Thursday, and similar stunts.

The idea of an old age pension, and an adequate one, is mighty nice. Being one of those nonchalant souls who undoubtedly will die in the poor house unless I DO get an old age pension, I can't be accused of being selfish in my argument that it is all wrong to expect something for nothing.

The only sound basis for an adequate pension is that in which the recipient helps build it up, such as postal workers, school teachers and police officers, and of course, our present social security system—if it works.

PERHAPS you didn't notice it, but the state paid a pretty fine compliment to the American Legion's child welfare work this week when the head of the Soldiers and Sailors Orphans Home at Xenia was made superintendent of the Boys Industrial school at Lancaster. The story behind the story is that the Legion has done such a marvelous job at the orphanage, molding children from all kinds of homes and backgrounds into fine, sturdy kids with ideals and character, that the state wants the same sort of methods applied to its wayward, delinquent boys. Too often the Industrial home has been merely an elementary school in crime for boys sent there. Old penal methods will be discarded at the institution as the Legion attempts to straighten the mental and moral kinks out of small boys.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Huey Long Followers Got Good Roads But Ham and Eggers Are Out In Cold

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

LOS ANGELES—If the audacity of the promoters of ham-and-eggs has stunned Americans in other sections of the country, the trustful tolerance of the rank and file should knock them for a loop. The followers of Huey Long at least got concrete roads to ride upon and school books for their kids, and the Kingfish, by his control of prosecutors, courts and juries kept his own record and those of his lieutenants technically pure.

Ham-and-eggs, however, came down to the wire on election day with a tremendous following but without a single material contribution to the faithful, and the past performances of some of the geniuses, such as the Allen brothers, were deemed to be irrelevant and immaterial.

* * *

Brother Willis Allen, who trained for demagoguery as cheer leader at the University of Southern California, was well known to have been convicted in the Federal court, fined $100 and sentenced to a two-year term of probation on his refusal to say yes or no to a charge of misusing the mails in the promotion of a hair restorer.

The public knew, also, that Brother Lawrence Allen had been found guilty of using "force and violence" on the person of a woman in a dispute which occurred early in the ham-and-eggs movement and had been ordered to pay $25 toward the assuagement of the lady's hurt.

The record stated that he struck her in the face with his right hand, almost knocking her down and knocking her glasses over her nose, but the chivalry of ham-and-eggs was such that even the act of striking a lady without giving her a chance to remove her glasses was given negligible weight.

The regrettable misadventure of W. S. Allen, the father of the brothers, with a mythical footpad which led the old gentleman to San Quentin prison a few years ago, was mentioned more in sorrow than in criticism.

Allen, senior, was attorney for an estate, and early in 1933, having been ordered by the court to turn over certain funds, nevertheless cashed a cashier's check for $5000 and with the money on his person had the ill fortune to be held up. It was a terrible coincidence that the stickup caught him at that unlucky hour—a coincidence which the court was constrained to doubt—and Mr. Allen was convicted.

* * *

Nor was Charles J. Husband, another important leader of ham-and-eggs, embarrassed by the fact that rather than disprove an indictment charging grave misconduct in a tax case he elected instead to attack the indictment itself on the ground that an unauthorized person had been present in the grand jury room when it was voted.

Upheld in this contention, Mr. Husband became one of the most powerful and influential orators in the long campaign against malefactors of great wealth.

NEW ENCYCLICAL ISSUED BY POPE

Urges Solution of Capital And Labor Problem In Mesage To U. S. Hierarchy.

VATICAN CITY— (AP) —Pope Pius XII, in a special encyclical, today appealed for the application of the "christian spirit" toward solution of the conflict of capital and labor in the United States.

The encyclical was addressed to bishops of the United States on the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Catholic hierarchy in that country.

The pontiff said solution of the social question would "bring great honor to the American people."

The epistle of more than 5,000 words also called attention to modern "evils" which arose from "ignorance of God, disregard for His commandments or their imperfect observance."

These evils, the pontiff declared, are "exaggerated egoism, thirst for pleasure, immodesty in dress, avarice for power, hungering after riches, neglect of the poor, breaking down of family life, levity in regard to marriage, birth control and neglect of duty to one's country."

Pope Pius declared he was grieved that in so many schools in the United States the "christian religion is ignored and human knowledge confined within the cramped limits of rationalism and naturalism."

This could not continue without dread consequences, he added.

Of supreme importance in his mind, the pontiff asserted, is the social question, "which even in America is the cause of disturbance and unrest."

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1939.

Drive carefully tomorrow—even if there isn't a policeman or highway patrolman in sight.

Word comes that it costs 50 per cent more to travel in Europe than formerly—so, by not going, the saving is considerably greater.

Now that the White House grounds have been closed to sightseers, even the more optimistic Republicans are not expecting a look-in before late next year.

Armistice Day Dedicated to Peace

A NEW generation has grown into manhood and womanhood since that joyous November 11, 1918, when the memorable flash, "Armistice signed," went around the world.

In Europe millions of this youthful new generation are again engaged in a resumption of the warfare that was temporarily ended twenty-one years ago today.

In the United States there has not yet been full recovery from the shock of that earlier conflict. Many American boys died on foreign battlefields; others were wounded or broken in health and some have spent all of the intervening years suffering in hospitals or handicapped by physical infirmities which resulted from their war service.

The past year has been filled with misgivings as to the possibility of the United States again becoming involved in Europe's territorial and economic controversies.

Almost unanimous public sentiment has been expressed against our participation in this war, and belief now is that we CAN stay out, if responsible executive and legislative agencies of government steer away from the course which carried us into the World war in 1917.

This year's observance of Armistice day can take no better form than to serve as a reminder of mistakes made in the three years from 1914 to 1917 and to bring increased determination to avoid a repetition of any such entanglement in Europe's unending embroilments.

First congressional action authorizing annual observance of Armistice day was taken in 1926, stressing value of expression of "our gratitude for peace and our desire for a continuance of peaceful relations with all other peoples." In 1938 congress acted further and asked that November 11 "be dedicated to the cause of world peace and be hereafter celebrated and known as Armistice day."

Ways of continuing peace for the United States, and aiding in bringing assurance of eventual permanent peace throughout the world, merit the prayerful thought of all Americans on this day.

Babson's Doleful Prediction

THE WORLD is coming under the domination of a few nations, says Roger W. Babson, who has been looking around. And he thinks that is all right.

"There is no logical excuse for so many nations," he says. "There should be only four or five possessing armaments and a dominating voice in world affairs. The balance must expect to become protectorates, if not integral parts of stronger nations. If nature takes its natural course, these dominating nations will be Russia, Germany, England, Japan or China and possibly the United States."

Surely it would be a great pity, and a great loss to the world, if most of the nations that are still their own masters were to lose their independence and be gobbled up or dominated by the imperial powers. Even our own country may not be wise and good enough to govern other countries, and it is not pleasant to think of ruthless powers like Russia, Germany and Japan extending their sway over other races.

Small, independent nations may be as great and important as nations with large area and population. They are needed for variety and the enrichment of the world's life.

Ordinance Limits Train Speed

AS NEARLY as can be learned from Mansfield ordinances, last revised and codified in 1909, Mayor Hunter's idea of an 8-mile-an-hour speed limit for railroad trains inside the city limits is in accord with local law. Provisions of the ordinance do not apply if suitable gates or watchmen are placed and maintained "at all crossings of such railroad with public streets as may be from time to time designated by city council as dangerous to the public safety."

This ordinance was passed, of course, before automobiles came into vogue and before flasher signals were in common use at grade crossings.

While highways and railroads intersect on the same level there will naturally be danger of accidents, and the extremely high speed at which some trains now pass through cities and towns presents a safety problem that cannot be ignored.

Somewhere between the present speed extreme and the eight miles an hour prescribed by ordinance may be found advisable—with continued efforts to provide better safeguards and to eliminate grade crossings as rapidly as possible.

Primitive Conservation

CENTURIES before there was any Indian bureau, or even any white men to run it, Indians in Colorado practiced sound soil conservation. At least, that is what surveys made by the National Park Service indicate. Studying the Mesa Verde region they find the remains of hundreds of check dams which were used to increase the amount of good arable land.

Seasonal rains, that might have carried away such good soil as there was, deposited fine, rich earth behind the dams, gradually filling them to the top. Hundreds of small plots of rich soil were built up, each capable of growing small plantings of the corn, beans and squash the Indians raised.

Now we are beginning again to control floods and water supply and to conserve and replenish good soil. Much waste would have been avoided if the process had been continued from Indian times to the present.

Policeman Who Didn't Shoot

A CLEVELAND policeman, George J. Hodapp, retiring after 33 years' service, has a record that may surprise some people. It is not, as some might expect, a record of slain criminals. It is precisely the opposite. In all his years of efficient service in law enforcement, this officer has never once used his gun.

How many Americans could carry a gun that long without using it? Especially in the recent years since the World war, when criminals have been much more daring and reckless than they used to be. His experience suggests that possibly some officers of the law are unnecessarily quick on the trigger.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—If Harlem seems a bit condescending these November days it is because Manhattan, and the rest of the country, is gazing with puckered frowns at a set of lyrics that are "plainer than English" to anybody who lives up above the Big Black Line, or plays the numbers racket.

There is a song called "Vol Vistu Gaily Star" in which such words as "Manya Si" and "Laam Baylo" appear. It doesn't make sense—to you. It doesn't make sense anywhere except above 125th street, where Bill Robinson is mayor and the name Joe Louis is a hail howdy.

But one rainy Saturday night this tune bobbed up on the Hit Parade, and after that people were mumbling Vol Vistu Gaily Star—Manya Si—Laam Baylo. . . . What does that mean. . . . What nonsense is this that has come along in another unintelligible screw-ball tune.

Well, the answer is this. It's a prayer. It's a sort of black cat voodoo prayer murmured by Harlem gamblers as they hazard their coin on the numbers racket. The words "Laam Baylo" form the name of the Voodoo god of chance. And the number is really "The Song of the Lucky Charm."

Gamblers in Harlem mumble this song, meaning, "This is my lucky star," every time they choose a number. It's been old "jive" stuff up there for years. It's everyday talk. In a sense, it's folklore, which a shrewd individual whose name is Slim Gaillard has pressed between 32 bars of music, and capitalized on. Slim, just to set the mood for you, was one of the co-writers of that other serene little lullaby, "Flat Foot Floogie." When he wrote this, he was merely justifying his existence as a song-writer. . . . But with "Vol Vistu Gaily Star" he becomes something of a historian of Harlem.

* * *

HERE is a good way to stamp yourself as an ignoramus: Just do as I do. There's quite a good music shop in our building, and I sneak off down there every day or so and while away time with the newer records. It's mighty nice to sit in a quiet booth, away from the world, and let the muse take the kink out of your nerves.

And so on the day it came out I was down there playing Tommy Dorsey's new release of "Indian Summer," which Jack Leonard sings and which is a honey. It sort of fascinates me. I keep sunning through my mind, and after wearing the record thin I thought I'd gather some interesting information for this column about the men or man, who wrote it.

There were a great many people in the shop—a busy one in the heart of Rockefeller Center—and in front of all these people I asked the record clerk if he had any information on the writers. . . . "Informal stuff," I told him, "something personal." And then I added, "By the way, who did write it?"

"Well," said the clerk, in front of all those people, "the name probably won't mean a thing to you, but the guy who wrote it was a man most of us remember as—Victor Herbert!"

* * *

VINCENT LOPEZ has weeded out all war songs from his orchestrations and will have nothing to do with them. He is practicing the old Mahatma Gandhi idea of "passive non-cooperation" against those who want him to play tunes reminiscent of doughboys swinging through French battlefields. A gag? May be . . . then again maybe not. Not many remember it, but Vincent Lopez began life by studying for the priesthood. His attitude on this question makes one think of that occasion when the late Emperor of Austria-Hungary, in 1914, asked Pope Pius if he would be good enough to bless the Austrian cause.

"I don't bless war," replied Pius: "I bless peace."

New Deal Economists Fear Slump

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Most of the New Deal economists have not been optimistic about business and employment prospects for the coming spring. They have heavily discounted prosperity from war orders insisting that these will not be so great as expected.

But the chief thing worrying them is inventories. They insist that American producers have piled up tremendous stocks in anticipation of popular demand, that this demand has not increased in propostion, and that hence production must ease off. They are not predicting anything remotely resembling a crash, just an increase in unemployment.

These arguments are pretty nearly the whole case of those left wingers who have been screaming lately for a new spending orgy by the federal government. It is only fair to say at this point that this desire for federal spending, so essential in the eyes of most left wingers, is neither the chicken nor the egg in this case.

Some of the government economists making this prediction of spring conditions are personally not in sympathy with spending at all. They are holdovers—not appointees given places at the suggestion of the Frankfurter-Corcoran-Cohen group.

* * *

BUT to the layman, so ignorant of statistics that he might have difficulty understanding one of the elaborate charts so dear to the economists, there is much skepticism about these gloomy prophecies. The war orders are very tangible. They are tremendous. They promise to grow bigger. Far from slowing them down, sinking of ships carrying the supplies to Britain and France will increase the demand, for every cargo sunk must be replaced.

For example, if a situation should arise under which every other cargo exported to Europe were destroyed, and continuation of this condition clearly faced the British and French, they would still be compelled to keep on buying, and to buy TWICE as much as though the seas were clear! They have to defend themselves and eventually to win the war, as they see it, and though neither the British nor the French will like wasting money, money is not and cannot be the prime essential for a long time to come.

Already there is talk about flying the planes to Europe—from Newfoundland—to circumvent the submarine menace. But it is obvious that the more serious the submarine menace becomes, and the more serious the menace of German bombing planes becomes, the more airplanes Britain and France will need—both to fight Nazi planes and to spot Nazi subs.

* * *

STARTING from that, and looking at the whole situation with a cold economic eye, it is obvious that American factories producing planes, munitions and other supplies for the Allies are going to be kept pretty busy.

It is just as obvious that the people working in those plants will have money to spend, and hence will buy things calculated to keep other lines of production occupied. The very argument so much used by left wingers as to the advantage of federal spending—in that the dollars spent keep right on circulating—applies with equal force to this war spending.

Besides, there WILL be heavy federal spending, even though no great new WPA fund or anything of the kind is voted by congress. For all factions agree that the already heavy expenditures of the United States government for national defense will be increased next session. At the moment there is no serious opposition to the plans of President Roosevelt to increase the army, navy, and marine corps, and to build more ships and many new planes.

So, despite the gloom, and the charts of the economists, it is hard for the lay observer to get all steamed up over the pessimism one hears so much in Washington.

Timely Editorial

Setback For Lunacy.

The decisive jolt to the crackpot ham and egg proposal in California and the routing of the Bigelow crowd in Ohio ought to slow down the whole business of pension agitation of an irresponsible character.

It could be assumed that so long as a majority of the people in the country or in any state remain of sour mind these schemes would be voted down as fast as they are brought up. But it is a disturbing and expensive practice.

The California campaign cost the older people of that state hundreds of thousands of dollars, and defeat of it will cost them even more in bitter disillusionment. The only people who have cashed in on it are the agitators who engineered it. Whatever allowance may be made for sincerity on the part of some of the advocates, the movement in California was essentially a racket at the expense of the aged. Nor was it much less than that in Ohio.—Kansas City Star.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The order "Cease firing" was flashed to all fronts at 11 a. m., November 11, 1918, signifying the end of the World war.

Listen, World!

Live Dangerously!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHAT do most of the folks you know want to get out of life? That's easy to answer . . . comfort, pleasure, safety. Enough fun to make them happy . . . enough money to keep them from being bothered . . . no sorrow or trouble or dangerous risk. Now and then some ambitious guy wants to burn up the road, but most of us just want to sit pretty and take things easily.

YET EASE AND SAFETY ARE ACTUALLY THE WORST THINGS THAT CAN HAPPEN TO US.

Havelock Ellis once said, "IF WE WANT TO LIVE IN ANY TRUE SENSE AT ALL WE ARE COMPELLED TO LIVE DANGEROUSLY."

That's the deepest truth—the oldest law—in life.

Danger? Most of us think of it as disaster. Have you ever thought of danger as an OPPORTUNITY . . . A DOOR INTO A LARGER LIFE? Instinctively we dodge danger as something abnormal, something that menaces life and which should be avoided. BUT DANGER SERVES LIFE. Danger is as normal and necessary an accompaniment of growth as air and water and food. GROWTH CAN'T COME WITHOUT DANGER.

That has been true of every form of life, clear back to the first pollywog in the primeval ooze. Those that live BIG had to LIVE HARD. Those that got anywhere had to disregard comfort and caution and TAKE RISKS. PERIL IS THE PRICE OF EVOLUTION.

We'd still be wiggling around in slime if certain adventurous creatures hadn't ventured to poke out their noses and sniff air. And you may be sure the species gave them the dogeye when they did it. They not only risked social censure; they risked death BUT THEY STARTED LIFE ON ITS LONG CLIMB UP TO MAN.

* * *

POLLYWOGS in primeval puddles, pioneers on the plains . . . the same law held for all. THOSE WHO LIVED GREATLY LIVED DANGEROUSLY. That law holds for you today.

You, today, can live BIG OR LITTLE, just as you choose. It may not be your lot to discover new continents, release electricity, reform a nation or die on a martyr's cross. But you can, within the scope of your own nature, do things quite as amazing. You, too, may be an adventurer . . . an inventor . . . a crusader . . . a poet . . . a conquerer. BUT TO DO SO YOU MUST LIVE DANGEROUSLY.

You must dare new ideas, as Hannibal dared the Alps. You must scorn discomforts and diversions, as Edison scorned them . . . as all great workers have scorned them. You must face loneliness and misunderstanding and humiliation as Lincoln faced them . . . For these are the dangers and trials that beset all advance. IF YOU EXPECT TO GO ON, you must pay your way!

And in return, what'll you get? "I can't hope for fame and glory like Lincoln and Edison," you say. "I'm just a plain worker that nobody knows. What is there in it for me if I live dangerously?"

PLENTY! There's pride in it, for you. And the sense of power, rising in you like a tide. And sometimes peace, and, once in a great while, a stirring glimpse of beauty. That's worth risking any danger.

One-Minute Test.

1. A black cross is the official marking on the wings of airplanes belonging to what nation?
2. In what body of water adjoining American territory are the best shrimp fishing grounds?
3. What president of the United States married a woman by the name of Helen Herron?

Words of Wisdom.

Two things, well considered, would prevent many quarrels; first, to have it well ascertained whether we are not disputing about terms rather than things; and secondly, to examine whether that on which we differ is worth contending about—Colton.

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONG lines of giant trucks rumbled along the New York-New Jersey waterfront, this week, to piers where cranes hoisted crates big enough for an airplane fuselage into the holds of foreign merchantmen.

Thus ended the four-year-old embargo on shipment of U. S. arms to nations at war. And thus began an eastward flow of made-in-America implements of death that might amount to a billion dollars within a few weeks.

Most such goods would go to Britain and France, for only the Allies had both money and ships to meet both cash and carry provisions of this country's new system of trade with belligerents. Some 300 airplanes were awaiting delivery to them when the embargo was repealed, and it was understood they contemplated purchase of 7,800 more. France had contracted for 4,600 aircraft motors.

But to reach Europe, Germans grumbled, "these materials will have to get past our raiders." And Field Marshal Goering said he didn't think much of the U. S. airplane industry, anyway.

How It Works.

Besides lifting the arms embargo, the Neutrality Act of 1939 seeks to keep this country clear of war by putting commerce between America and belligerent powers on a cash-and-carry basis, banning American loans to warring governments and barring U. S. travelers and ships from combat zones.

As immediately applied by President Roosevelt to the European spat (but not to the undeclared Sino-Japanese war), the new law provides that:

1. Britain, France and Germany must take title here to all goods bought in the U. S., and must carry the stuff away in their own or other non-American ships.

2. American ships can't trade with Britain, Ireland, France, Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Sweden or French north Africa.

That restriction apeared to force withdrawal from their normal routes of more than 80 U. S. ships employing more than 5,000 American seamen.

At Home

No Ham and Eggs.

Election days' bitterest battles swirled around a pair of pension proposals—

Narrowly beaten a year ago, "$30 every Thursday" for non-employed oldsters was routed 2-to-1 this time by the biggest turnout of voters in California history. Sponsors of the scheme, which opponents had said would bankrupt the state, laid defeat largely to the "political treachery" of Gov. Culbert L. Olson. Elected last year with "ham and eggs" support, he later denounced the plan. So its backers, promising to try again, first started a movement to recall him.

The Ohio proposal of $50-a-month-at-60 was walloped even more decisively—3 to 1. But that plan's inventor—69-year-old Herbert S. Bigelow, preacher and politician—announced he also would offer a revised edition next year.

* * *

Solar Steam Heat.

Scientists estimate the heat falling on an acre of land during a summer equals the heat produced by burning 250 tons of coal. Engineers at Massachusetts Institute of Technology are testing an application of that phenomenon by building a house with special black boxes—of metal and glass, with layers of dead air—on the roof, and an insulated water storage tank in the basement. The trapped heat should cause hot water to flow into the tank. The engineers hope to keep the building warm through the winter by forcing air over the hot tank surface.

* * *

More Boats.

Uncle Sam's navy now stands second in size only to one—1,755,575 tons of warcraft, by latest official comparison, to Britain's 2,079,813. By 1944, if Congress okays a 25% expansion plan to be submitted in January, it will be second to none. The proposed building program, which would cost $1,300,000,000, calls for eight new cruisers, 52 destroyers, 32 submarines, 2,395 airplanes, 36 blimps, 31 auxiliary vessels.

Abroad

Beer Hall Blast.

From a Munich beer cellar, 16 years ago this week, Adolf Hitler launched a premature putsch that landed him in jail. To celebrate the anniversary, he made a speech to veteran Nazis there last Wednesday night—and very nearly landed wherever fallen fuehrers go.

Just 11 minutes after he had spoken and gone—instead of sticking around while the boys hoisted a few, as he used to do at these annual reunions—a blast wrecked the place, killed seven and injured 63.

An official announcement immediately blamed a plot of "foreign origin," and the Nazi press accused Britain directly. A $240,000 reward was posted for the culprits, and the secret police began a roundup of "all enemies of the state."

* * *

They Also Suffer.

About the only people in Europe still eating as heartily as ever are Frenchmen.

Germans have been restricted in purchases of most essentials since the war started. Britons, though not on food rations yet, have been warned they'll have to cut down next month to four ounces of bacon and butter a week.

Restrictions have also been announced in practically all European neutral countries.

* * *

Burgomaster Max.

When a German commander entered Brussels in 1914, Burgomaster Adolphe Max refused to shake hands. The general slammed his pistol on Max's desk. Max ceremoniously placed his penknife beside the gun. Though the invaders eventually jailed him, Max remained a symbol of Belgium resistance. After the war he turned down titles and the premiership to keep his lifetime job as mayor. This week, at 70, he died.

Business

War and Profits.

The federal department of labor cautioned American workers this week against expecting war orders to boost employment and wages as they did in 1914-17. But the bureau of agricultural economics, in predicting moderate business gains and a rise in the national farm income for 1940, emphasized prospects for increased exports to the warring nations in Europe and to neutrals whose usual sources would be closed by the conflict.

Other factors listed as contributing to the brighter business outlook: (1) Prospects for a "considerable" increase in the output of automobiles and other durable consumers' goods; (2) prospective increases in capital expenditures by railroads, utilities and manufacturers; (3) less cautious buying policies on the part of business men generally.

* * *

Boom Producers?

American business men are ever on the lookout for another product that will prove the spark-plug to prosperity, as the automobile was in the '20s. Two candidates were nominated this week:

U. A. Sanabria, of the American Television Institute, saw in television a boom-bringer. As a nation-wide industry, he said, it would aid 6,000,000 men, directly or indirectly.

Aviation dopesters saw the "flivver" flying machine becoming cheap enough and safe enough to appeal to Americans. Flivvers already are being sold for $1,000 on the installment plan. And spin-proof planes that can be landed by amateurs are being developed.

* * *

Uncle Sam Loses.

More than 42,000 wheat farmers have recovered some of their losses caused by this year's droughts, floods, hail and insects. Their crop had been insured by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. The agency had to pay out in wheat $1,885,000 more than it received in premiums.

People

Babe In the Woods.

Bruce Crozier, 7, made his name as a woodsman last week by staying lost for six days in rugged northern Arizona. This week, in recounting his adventures, he gained quite a reputation for repartee—

To hunters who, upon finding him, asked if he was lost: "Well, I wouldn't want to be lost any worse." To reporters who questioned his story of not having eaten for a week: "The squirrels beat me to the acorns every time." To a nurse who marveled at his stamina: "It was pretty cold, but I am a sound sleeper."

* * *

Camacho's Campaign.

Next year is 1940 in Mexico, too. But President Lazaro Cardenas, whose six-year term expires Dec. 1, 1940, is constitutionally ineligible for reelection.

The government party's candidate, formally announced last week-end, is Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, 43, a Cardenas lieutenant, who felt so sure of nomination he resigned from the cabinet last January to start running. His platform promises continuation of social and economic reforms—"with due respect to the incentives of private benefit."

* * *

Byrd's Birds.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd, preparing to sail from Boston for the Antarctic, announced this week he wanted to place his 20 penguins "in good homes" before leaving. Phone calls, telegrams and visitors immediately poured in from all New England and as far away as Kansas and South Carolina. But when they learned Byrd wanted $150 apiece for his birds, all but two prospective buyers lost interest.

Ohio Anecdotes

Song Writer Extraordinary.

A MEMORIAL to the never-to-be-forgotten Stephen Foster was dedicated in June, 1937, on the University of Pittsburgh campus by the city of Pittsburgh.

Cincinnatians remember Foster as the fellow who kept books for his brother, Danning, and whose songs, written in spare hours, met with consistent popularity in Cincinnati music halls in the 1840's. Foster, famous for his negro minstrelsies, moved to Pittsburgh to pursue song-writing solely.

The Stephen Collins Foster memorial building in Pittsburgh is one of the finest monuments ever dedicated to a composer anywhere.

Renowned for his "Old Folks At Home," "My Old Kentucky Home," and "Old Black Joe," his "Old Dog Tray" sold 125,000 copies in an 18-month period. "Massa's In the Cold, Cold Ground," in 1852, surpassed even that figure.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

'In the Night, All Cats Are Gray.'

"Please tell me the origin, if you can, of that old saying which we still hear put to good sarcastic use: 'In the night all cats are gray?'"

This saying doubtless owes its popularity to its use in the old Spanish classic, "Don Quixote," by Cervantes, in which it appears exactly in its modern form.

However, the expression goes back still further. The actual source of the thought, though in slightly different words, is found in the old "Proverbes" of John Heywood. This dates about 1565 as against 1615, which is the publication date of the second part of Cervantes work, where the saying is known to us.

Heywood's form is: "When all candles bee out, all cats bee gray!"

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, November 12.

Sunday's horoscope is a particularly propitious one for all matters of church and state, with much progress in philanthropic and educational lines. There also are deep metaphysical trends, with plans for group solidarity and brotherhood succeeding. Social functions are to the fore, with happy, intriguing angles.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a productive and pleasant year, which holds promise of attaining high goals in both social and business. Aside from rich fulfilments of personal ambitions, there may be gratifying developments in advancing group interests or fraternal ideals. Make changes with proper precaution but do not fear innovation.

A child born on this day may be very active and ambitious, with expansive and generous impulses pushing it to high levels in prestige and power. Social, cultural and humanitarian trends may further such attainment, culminating in conspicuous recognition.

For Monday, November 13.

Monday's astrological forecast is for an extremely lively and interesting state of affairs, with business, employment and other ambitious projects under fine impetus. This state of affairs may come from innovation, unique methods and audacious moves, even in speculative and risky chances, where timidity and lack of initiative are swept aside.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a lively year. There may be much initiative and audacity, with highly-stimulated forces and faculties. These may operate in the field of chance, where speculation or hazard may prove profitable. Superiors, promoters and employers may be ready to assist when ideas hold novelty or originality.

A child born on this day may be versatile, quick, energetic and have the courage to step out of old ruts and abolish worn out traditions in business and cultural and social relations.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

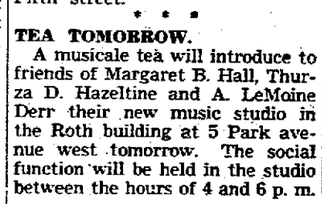
"The Authority on Authorities"

HOW TO FIGURE

Problems bearing upon the correct way to play your trump suit are frequently difficult for the average good player to figure. With certain combinations of honors at the top of a suit, the best methods may seem to be dependent upon no other consideration. But just as important a factor is the number of cards held by the opponents in the suit. In many cases it can be the deciding factor.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Here is a rubber deal on which North bid 1-Club, East 1-Diamonr, South 1-Heart, North 3-Hearts, South 4-Hearts, North 4-No Trumps (Blackwood), South 5-Diamonds to show one ace, and North 6-Hearts. Answering his partner's bid, West led the diamond 9.

With proper play in other respects, South stood to make his contract if he limited his losses in the trump suit to one trick. After ruffing two diamonds, South led the heart J. to tempt a cover, which did not eventuate, and then let it go through to the king. On the next round he played the heart ace and was beaten because this left the queen outstanding.

Possessing nine trumps, sound play calls for the use of the ace on one of the first two rounds, the question being which. In this spot the odds slightly favor the first round in an effort to drop a singleton king or queen, as, if West had both outstanding honors guarded he might have played one on the jack.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

AS HARRY UNDERWOOD repeated to me the sinister ultimatum to Dicky he had just read from the lips of the woman facing my husband at the table near ours, I clenched the edge of the table with both hands to keep from slumping in a heap to the floor.

With a muttered word to Harry, Lillian put a reassuring hand upon my arm and leaned toward her husband across me, in such fashion as to screen me from possible inquisitive glances.

"Steady! Chin up!" she adjured me. "They mustn't guess we're in the least interested. And we must hear the rest of the story."

"I'm—all right," I gasped, and making a desperate effort for control, took my hands from the tablecloth and leaned back in my chair in what I hoped was a natural attitude. Lillian whispered "Good girl!" and again turned her attention to the little melodrama being played at the table where Dicky had been seated with his pseudo-secretary and her gangster companion.

But my husband was no longer seated. He had sprung to his feet and was towering above them with such black fury in his face as I never had seen in it before.

"So!" Harry repeated, and I could imagine the venom in Dicky's tense clipped utterance. "this is what you have been keeping under cover, is it? And I thought you wanted money."

"We still do," the woman said coolly. "You don't imagine we're going to let you off with just handing over the old man, do you? This sentence has a fine clause as well. So you'd better start shelling out. But we can wait for that. Turn up the old bird first."

"Don't think this means any sort of agreement with your demands," he said. "But there's no use calling attention to the argument. Now, let me understand you. I came here prepared to accede to your exorbitant money demands. Do you mean they are not sufficient?"

I stirred uneasily, and Lillian whispered tensely:

"Stage the heavy courtesy, Harry, but don't lose sight of those lips. I'm going to telephone the hideaway. We'll get more men outside and nab those two beauties. Wehn it was a simple case of private extortion on Dicky, we couldn't do anything but a snatch of the Chief is something else again."

She arose as she spoke, and her big husband got up with her, outwardly the picture of elaborate courtesy. But I noticed that he relaxed no whit of his watch upon the lips of the woman at the other table who was speaking slowly, and, as Harry repeated it, with malevolent emphasis.

"You're shouting sure they're not sufficient. We want them, of course. But the main thing we want is that old devil, your father-in-law."

Dicky was quiet for a long second. Then he squared his shoulders and spoke slowly, deliberately.

"Suppose I were able to raise the financial ante," he said. "Could you drop your second condition, then?"

I saw a glitter come into the woman's eyes.

"So you were holding out on us!" she said. "You told me the last time I saw you that you had squeezed the last penny out of everything you had. And now—"

"I told you the truth," he said. "I have exhausted all my own resources, but—"

The woman interrupted him summarily.

"I get you," she said. "You think you could tap your lady wife's bankroll if it were a question of her old dad's being snatched. No doubt you could, but it's no good, old darling. We want your money, but more than anything else, we want the old man. What's the answer?"

Lillian came back from the telephone as Harry finished retailing the woman's words to me, and we all three watched tensely to see what would be Dicky's reply to the grim ultimatum.

Good Game? Yeh, If They'd Played.

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark.—(U.P.)—Yesterday's football game between Concordia college and Arkansas Polytechnic college was nothing out of the ordinary, officials admitted today, except for one detail—Concordia's team failed to arrive. A frantic search for the lost team revealed that there had been a misunderstanding about the date.

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor

GET this, partner: A certain official of Marion Harding ignited the movement to force Mansfield's withdrawal from the N. C. O. conference a few years ago. . . . According to reports via the grapevine, Marion is now on the "spot". . . .Harding, which has an enrollment twice the size of any other school in the circuit, is slated to get kicked out of the wheel. . . . Maybe not this year, but, perhaps, the following year. . . . The Presidents not only won the football championship, but also the last basketball title and track laurels. . . . "It's to laugh," as the Greek comic would say. . . . Notice, Madison: "Night football at its best is none too good and the Madison field is, in our opinion, a poor lighting set-up," says the Bellville Star. . . . Over in New Haven, the high school basketball players are sporting military haircuts, and they're out to mow down their rivals. . . . They've also selected the nickname of "Yellow Jackets." . . . Illinois footballers adopted the slogan: 'There's no harmon doing a little running ourselves'," Mr. Halsey Hall reports. . . . Oh, Halsey!

* * *

If colleges aren't going commercial, how about this headline: "Virginia beats Chicago before crowd of $5,000!"

* * *

MICHIGAN MUST BEAT GOPHERS OR . . .

MICHIGAN must beat Minnesota today or withdraw from the race. . . . Should they beat the Gophers and then go on to lick Ohio State, the Wolves can come through with a crown or a tie depending on two propositions. . . . One is that if the Bucks are smashed down by Illinois, such as was Michigan, and then beaten by the latter team, Fritz Crisler's men can finish on top. . . . The second is that should Ohio be tied by Illinois and beaten by Michigan there would be a deadlock. . . . Any other course eliminates Michigan because of schedule disadvantages. . . . Ohio plays six conference games as against five for Michigan and this may be the deciding factor. . . . There's not much excuse for missing points after touchdowns. . . . Eighty-one per cent of the points have been converted in the National league over the last three years. . . . The goal posts being on the goal lines helps, of course. . . . Only three games have been lost by failure to convert the extra points in four years in the pro circuit.

* * *

Iowa might be a good bet today. . . . In the Hawkeyes' previous meeting with Notre Dame, they broke a 20-game Irish winning streak with a 10 to 7 triumph.

* * *

WILL OHIO TRY TO BEAT MICHIGAN SCORE?

THERE has been a lot of talk about Coach Francis Schmidt using reserves against Chicago today . . . in an attempt to keep the score down. . . . But—and we're serious—don't be surprised if the Bucks top Michigan's 85 points. . . . Don Snavely, Columbia center, and Bob Glass, Tulane back, who face each other next week, were co-captains of their Massillon, O., high school teams.

Play Four Games In Five Nights

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Joe Doakes, the average Cleveland sports fan, has put the Cleveland Barons, champions of the International American Hockey league, on a very uncomfortable spot—and Joe will be perfectly content to leave the Barons there if they don't produce.

The Barons tonight continue as stiff a hockey schedule as any team is subjected to in a season. They play four games in five nights, and then two more in the next four nights.

Starting with the Philadelphia Ramblers in Cleveland tonight, the Barons move to Syracuse to play the Stars Sunday; Tuesday they play Springfield at Springfield, and they come home to face the Providence Reds Wednesday. A week from tomorrow they tangle with Indianapolis at Indianapolis, and the next night they come home to entertain the Hoosiers.

SUN EGRET FAVORITE IN PIMLICO HANDICAP

BALTIMORE —(AP)— It's hard enough to pick winners in horse races, but the fans at Pimlico today found themselves even trying to pick the starters in the $5,000 Ritchie handicap.

Twenty sprinters were entered overnight in the six-furlong Armistice Day feature, with probabilities 15 or less would go to the post. Sun Egret, despite his disappointing performance in New England, held a narrow margin over the good field in early odds.

KING ON PROBATION

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— Barney (Battling) Levinsky, onetime light heavyweight champion, began a one year probation sentence today after pleading guilty to charges of operating a gambling house.

Here's Football's Sophomore-of-the-Year?

AP Feature Service

Texas U. believes its little Jack (Cowboy) Crain is football's most spectacular rookie. The 5 foot 7, 165-pound sophomore halfback ran wild in each of the Longhorns' first five games, scoring twice on 70-yard gallops against Oklahoma and on an 80-yard sprint against Arkansas. He tallied 41 points in October. Southern Methodist halted his touchdown parade but couldn't bottle him up. Some say he's the greatest runner in Southwest history. He's fast but it is his change of pace that befuddles tacklers. The 19 year old Nocona boy sells cowboy boots and works in the stadium locker for tuition money.

Wildcats Trip Dukes, 25 to 6

Evans, Bilton Account For Points In Grid Victory.

NEW LONDON—New London's Wildcats defeated the Wellington Dukes, 25 to 6, in a blinding rainstorm here yesterday.

An 80-yard march gave the Wildcats their first touchdown in the opening period, Evans climaxing the drive with a plunge from the nine. A blocked punt set the stage for the second counter, Bilton crashing center for the five for the touchdown.

* * *

Held scoreless in the third frame, New London came back with two more scores in the final period. Evans and Bilton scored, with the former tallying after New London recovered a fumble.

* * *

Wellington tallied early in the game when it recovered a New London fumble on the 14. McKisson skirted end for the score on two plays.

Trade; Salary Cut? Greenberg's Just Sitting Tight

NEW YORK —(AP)— The "sit tight" corner of the Greenberg household in the Bronx is occupied comfortably these off-season days as big Hank awaits developments on rumored baseball matters ranging from a salary cut to a trade sending him from Detroit to Washington.

"All I know so far," Hankus-Pankus explained today, "is what I read in the papers. One story say that I'm going to be traded to the Senators. Another says that if I'm not traded, I'm going to have my salary cut by the Tigers anyway.

"Well, the club hasn't told me a thing about either move yet, so I'm sitting tight until I find out what's what.

"Frankly, I don't anticipate any trouble with the club either way. It strikes me, just as an opinion, that the Tigers could afford to trade several other of the players more than they could me. Of course, it may be that they've put me on the block because Rudy York can handle first base—and can hit, too. About a salary cut—well, I haven't thought about it."

BOWLING SCORES

France of Ohio Brass League Rolls Games of 248, 247 to Set Scoring Pace.

A sensational comeback after opening with a poor 130, France of the Hard Irons compiled a 625 total to lead the scoring in the Ohio Brass league at the Meder alleys last night.

France followed with a 248 and 247 to reach the coveted 600 figures.

McKinley of the Factory Office shot a 596 to miss the 500 circle by only four pins.

It was erroneously reported in yesterday's issue that Margaret Baker led the scoring in the City Women's league with a 556 total. Thelma Linster was the high scorer with a 581 total. The Richland Printers' star rolled games of 172, 174 and 235.

* * *

Ray Shively of No. 3 led the Moose Home league scoring with a 620, which included games of 215, 229 and 176. He paced his team to a pair of wins over No. 8, led by Gene Funston's 608.

Glenn Yingling of No. 6 opened with a 203 and closed with a 216 to hit 617.

Freddies Whip Danville, 31-6

Gregg Leads Team to 8th Win of Season.

FREDERICKTOWN — Stanley Gregg led the Fredericktown Freddies to a 31 to 6 victory over Danville, their eighth of the year here yesterday in the final game of the season for both clubs.

Gregg's powerful running featured the game in which the Freddies failed to score in only one quarter.

* * *

Swank scored the first touchdown on a plunge from the one-foot line in the opening period for the only first half score. He also tallied the first of three in the third quarter.

* * *

Weller's return of an interception 50 yards and Gregg's dive from the eighth turned in the other period touchdown. Rust's interception of a throw in the final quarter set up the final score, which was registered on a pass from Gregg to Weller. Mize scored for Danville in the third.

De Sales Ends Sked Unbeaten

Toledo School Closes With Win Over Grand Rapids.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)—De Sales college of Toledo looked back with pride and not a little surprise today upon its first football season. Its season was over; its record was six victories and no defeats.

Coach Al Sacksteder's team completed its first conquest yesterday with a 26 to 0 victory over Grand Rapids on the Michigan team's gridiron. Tennessee Polytechnical school defeated Youngstown, O., college, 7 to 6 Friday.

* * *

It was announced that Defiance's game with St. Marys of Michigan, scheduled today at St. Marys, had been cancelled at the request of St. Marys because of the physical condition of some of its players who were injured in earlier games. It was the last game on the Defiance schedule.

REVEALS PLAN TO ADD TO LOOP MEMBERSHIP

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The National Football league will be increased from 10 to 12 clubs next year, George P. Marshall and Dan Topping, two prominent club owners, believed today.

Boston and one of three western clubs, probably Los Angeles, are scheduled to join the circuit, said Marshall and Topping, owners of the Washington Redskins and Brooklyn Dodgers, respectively. Cincinnati and St. Louis are also desirous of entering the league, they said.

MONTREAL —(AP)— Catcher Stefart Hofferth and Pitcher Jim Reid of the Dayton, O. mid-Atlantic league club are two of eight Brooklyn Dodger farmhands who will play with the Montreal Royals in the International Baseball league next season, said President Hector Racine of the Royals today.

Supplies Seek Sixth Straight Home Win

Al Schwaner to Carry Offensive Burden In Game With Carrollton Eleven Sunday.

MANSFIELD'S AUTOMOTIVE SUPPLIES, the city's lone semi-pro football team, will depend upon Quarterback Al Schwaner to enable them to successfully protect their unblemished home record Sunday.

The hard-hitting backfield star will lead the once-defeated Supplies against the crack Carrollton Metals in a benefit contest for Melvin Harner, at 2:30 p. m. Harner, erstwhile Madison high star, was injured in the Supplies' opening game.

Schwaner, who was held scoreless in his last two games, is expected to carry the brunt of the attack as Coach Earl McMullen's well-drilled aggregation attempts to chalk up its sixth straight home triumph.

* * *

How well the Mansfielders will be able to accomplish their feat remains to be seen for Carrollton should offer them a lot of opposition.

* * *

Carrollton, which suffered a 7 to 0 setback at the hands of the touted South Akron Awnings, possesses a potent passing attack and Coach McMullen has been drilling his charge on aerial defense this week.

Mansfield's only defeat this year was a 25 to 0 beating by the Awnings, and a weak passsing defense was one of the principal reasons for the defeat.

The Supplies are expected to rely on their smashing ground game to topple the dangerous invaders.

* * *

Only twice this year has Schwaner been held to less than two touchdowns, and his teammates expect to supply the blocking Sunday to give him a chance to add to his total.

* * *

If the Mansfield running attack fails, the club also has an aerial offense that may offer trouble. With Vern Heiser on the throwing end and Elmer Dials and Schwaner handling the catching assignments, the attack can spell touchdowns from any point on the gridiron.

RAIN HALTS GAME

Rain caused the postponement of the Ashland-Bucyrus high school game in Bucyrus last night. The game was rescheduled for 2:30 p. m. today.

The Mt. Vernon-Marion game, scheduled at Marion, was also called off last night. It will probably be played Tuesday night, officials announced.

PARKER, BAUGH TANGLE IN PRO GRID FEATURE

NEW YORK —(AP)— There will be fireworks popping all over the National Pro Football league tomorrow, but more skyrockets are likely to be set off in Brooklyn during the Dodger-Washington Redskins fracas than anywhere else.

The games which bring together the Chicago Bears and Detroit, the Chicago Cardinals and New York, and the Green Bay Packers and Philadelphia loom fully as important in the standings, but they won't have any Ace Parker pitching against a Sammy Baugh and an Andy Farkas.

FRICK SUPPORTS 6-DAY SCHEDULE FOR NATIONAL

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— President Ford Frick of the National Baseball league today supported a six-day week schedule with doubleheaders on Sunday and an open date on Monday to eliminate "synthetic twin-bills."

"I'd much rather have the double-headers on the regular schedule than let the teams call off a game at the last minute to create synthetic twin bills," Frick said yesterday.

Steele Slated Again Monday

Mansfield Boy to Tangle With Curly McCloud.

Bud Steele, Mansfield youngster who uncorked excellent form last week in his first start in several months, will again have a place on the card in the Armory Monday night.

Steele, who used to wrestle his motorcycle chasing speeders at Plymouth but now a local resident, will meet Curly McCloud of Columbus, one of the best of the good crop of light heavyweights in and around the Capital City.

* * *

The match is the opening event of the show and is scheduled for one fall to win with a 20-minute time limit.

* * *

The signing of this match completes the big card for Monday night and it'll be headed by the light heavyweight battle between Walter Miller, aggressive star from Atlanta, Ga., and Josef Morell, powerful Hungarian 180 pounder.

These two stars clash in a two out of three falls match with an hour and a half time limit. The "heat" will be definitely on Miller because of his startling upset victory over the Great Mephisto and the lightheavies will be shooting at Miller.

Coaches Hear Ex-Heidelberg Athletic Head

Herman E. Sayger Speaks To Group on Organization Plans For Sports Club.

"The purpose of your organization is for the promotion of a better and more wholesome athletic program for the youth of today," Herman E. Sayger of Tiffin, organizer of the National Downtown Coaches association, told members of the Mansfield group at the Chamber of Commerce last night.

"In its original meaning it did refer to football enthusiasts," Sayger said, "but it has come to mean anyone who is sports-minded enough to enjoy playing the game over and over again. This includes the Hot Stove league, Sunday Morning Quarterbacks, Barber Shop Convincers, Monday's Second Guessers and the many other groups who enjoy giving their version of any sport."

* * *

Sayger, who came here last night to help further organization plans for the Mansfield club, declared that the purpose of organization is to bring together men in the community who are interested in sports for the purpose of clarifying differences of opinion and to lend a helping hand to all legitimate up-building sports programs, to develop sportsmanship throughout the community, to encourage and foster clean, wholesome athletic competition, to assist indirectly worthy boys in securing an education, to co-operate with local organizations in promoting benefit contests either by participation in or by using influence to secure success of the same and to promote good felowship.

* * *

A round table discussion was led by Sayger, former Heidelberg college athletic director and founder of the National Downtown Coaches, after his talk.

Ned Brooks, chairman of the organization committee, which includes Sam Fox and Herman Clingan, presided, and announced that another meeting of the club would probably be held next week.

The committee will meet early next week to draw up a constitution. It will also serve as a nominating committee for the coming election of officers.

BUCYRUS WAR VETS MARCH ON ARMISTICE DAY

Place Wreath At Legion Point As Feature Of Observance; Attorney Speaks.

BUCYRUS — Bucyrus' observance of Armistice Day was concluded this morning with a parade to Legion Point, where a wreath was placed by George H. Davis, past commander of the American Legion Post here.

Participating in the parade were the 134th Field Artillery band and Service battery, the 135th F. A. Medical detachment, the Bucyrus high school band, members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts of Bucyrus and their auxiliaries and several other organizations.

A special program was held Friday at the high school here when Attorney Victor Vollrath was the principal speaker.

"If we remember what we learned in the last great war, those who died will not have died in vain," Vollrath declared, adding, "they died in an honest effort to preserve our government. If we keep out of the war that now is raging in Europe, we have a chance to reach that objective."

HEAR TALK BY ATTORNEY

CRESTLINE—Attorney O. H. Hilborn spoke on "Americanism" at the Armistice Day program held at the high school auditorium this morning.

F. H. Earner, chaplain of McWhiter Post, American Legion, sponsors of the annual observance of the day, gave the invocation and the school chorus and audience sang America. M. C. Davis directed the chorus for a selection after which Doris Bauer gave a reading and Gwendolyn Binkley sang "God Bless America."

Following the singing of the national anthem which concluded the program two minutes of silence was observed while the audience faced the east. Taps were blown by Maurice Davis.

PLANS DINNER

MILLERSBURG — The annual Armstice day dinner will be served at the American Legion cabin, south of Millersburg, Thursday evening. It will be a covered dish affair and all Legionnaires and their families and members of the auxiliary and their families will attend.

MILLERSBURG—Corinne Snyder was elected worthy matron of Holmes chapter No. 371, Order of the Eastern Star, for the year 1939-40, at a recent meeting. Gilbert Weber was elected worthy patron; Ethel Lower, conductress; Alice Ittner, assistant conductress; Mrs. Iva Dugan, secretary; Mrs. Isha Manly, treasurer; and Miss Eva Sterling, trustee.

THEATERS

"Jamaica Inn."

Daphne du Maurier, who turned out a best seller when she wrote "Rebecca," is the author of "Jamaica Inn," the strange story of ships lured to their doom on the rocks of Cornwall and then looted by a band of cut-throats. Charles Laughton plays the villainous Squire Pengalen, and his screen "discovery," Maureen O'Hara, makes her appearance with him in this picture as the orphan who runs square into the pirate's den. The picture comes to the Madison today, with "Blondie Brings Up Baby" as a second feature.

* * *

"Drums Along Mohawk."

For the first time in her stage and screen career Claudette Colbert lays aside glamor to show up the really fine actress she is, in "Drums Along The Mohawk." As the wife of a frontiersman, whose life is made miserable by Indian attacks, her hair is frowsy and her clothes are nondescript. Henry Fonda is ideally cast as the stalwart Indian fighter whose morale sinks lower each time the Indians burn their cabin and their crops. Other players in this saga of the early New York pioneers are Edna May Oliver, Eddie Collins, John Carradine and a number of American Indians of various tribes. The film, which is at the Ohio is in Technicolor.

* * *

"Each Dawn I Die."

Two of screenland's toughest boys meet in this picture at the Ritz, with James Cagney and George Raft in a story of political corruption and prison abuses. Hot on the trail of political racketeering, a crack reporter is framed by "the boys" and sent to prison. At first he is intent on getting his prison stories but the prison brutalities soon undermine his morale and courage and he becomes just another desperate prisoner, filled with vengance. Jane Bryan is Cagney's sweetheart. Also on the bill for the first three days of the week is "Josette" with Don Ameche and Simone Simon.

* * *

"When Tomorrow Comes."

The romantic story of two people who meet, fall in love, and separate all within a few hours, is told in "When Tomorrow Comes," which brings Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer to the Park the first half of the week. The story moves against the background of the hurricane which struck the New England states a year ago. Boyer is a famous concert musician and Miss Dunne is a singer who is supporting herself and paying for her lessons by waiting on table in a restaurant. "Danger Flight," a Tailspin Tommy episode, is also scheduled.

* * *

"They Made Her a Spy."

The title gives the key to the feature attraction at the Majestic on Sunday and Monday. Recent news stories makes the picture believable stuff. A girl joins the intelligence department at Washington, D. C. and becomes a trusted operative. Her path crosses that of another spy, who believes her bent on wrecking the United States, just as she believes that he is. Major roles are played by Sally Eilers, Allan Lane and Fritz Lieber. "Hidden Power" with Tim Holt, is the second feature.

CHAPTER XXIII

"Wilmot—did that? Oh, I see it all now! If I had married, his short accounts would have been discovered! I was to have my money when I became 25—or before that if I married. Wilmot had to keep himself covered—prevent me from getting married."

"You mean—he misappropriated funds?"

"Yes. I had nothing left after his death. That's why I became Selia Brewster's secretary," she said bitterly.

"What a rotter! What a deal he handed you!"

"Anyway, Jimmy, I'm grateful to you for telling me so much. At least, it raises my morale to know nothing personal caused three men to let me down so completely."

But there was ragged desperation in her tone. She clutched hands together in her lap until the skin threatened to break over her knuckles.

"I've hated myself for the way I acted, darling," Jimmy Blocking sounded penitent enough. "But I was poor, proud and ambitious. I thought after the thing blew over, and I'd made my fortune, I'd come back and marry you—even though I stood a devil of a chance of losing you in the meanwhile."

Rita was not listening. She was visibly trembling, tense seething with anger. Wilmot — Wilmot Green! So at last the whole truth had come out. Oh, what that man had to answer for! But he was gone now, she must forgive him. She must allow herself to think only of her somewhat complicated future—with Roger Brewster.

"Why—oh, why do we make such a mess of living?" she asked, thinking aloud.

Jimmy leaned to her, took her two cold hands in his. "I'm well-fixed," he told her quickly. "I'm asking you to marry me, Rita—now—today."

She took away her hands, his words making slight impression upon her.

"Thank you—for the compliment, Jimmy," she got out slowly. "All that has been arranged. I'm engaged to—Roger Brewster."

"You can't be, Rita! That's all wrong! I've counted on this moment too long."

She smiled wearily but tolerantly.

"Sorry, Jimmy. You're a rather superior person. I really think I liked you best of the three men who loved me less than a bank roll—but I never can marry you."

"I see. You think I'm a bounder and I guess you can't be blamed. But I've changed, Rita."

He climbed out of his chair, stood looking down at her almost belligerently. "But you're not married to Roger—yet. I can wait. Let's get out of here and take a look at the pool. You can sit on the rim and watch me do a jacknife dive I learned abroad."

He assisted her to her feet, and they began sauntering along under an avenue of towering deodar trees, their low-hanging, green-fringed boughs sweeping the ground with the dignified grace of a Raleigh.

* * *

Sober-faced, both engrossed with lacerating thoughts, Rita and Jimmy soon came to the green-blue pool glittering under the sun. Here was gay laughter and chatter from girls in gaudy, audacious swim suits, the answering banter from deeper masculine voices; the scene colorful, high-pitched pleasantly keyed to the fun-loving rhythm of the younger set.

Rita dropped cross-legged on the rim of the pool as Jimmy left her.

She started at the sound of a familiar metallic voice, the staccato-clipped words. She glanced incredulously out to the center of the pool where a woman was splashing about.

Rita's breath caught in her throat. Dolores! Dolores—here?

And in this moment Rita forgot Delores' indifference, her actual neglect, and only rejoiced at discovering this woman, her own adored mother, just a few feet away.

Rita called out quickly, "Mother, mother!"

Delores brushed water from her eyes with the backs of her hands, began wading toward the end of the pool where Rita sat. Delores' pretty face was filled with incredulity tinged with impatience. Being singled out as a mother by a very much grown-up young woman was not altogether Delores' precence at the present moment.

* * *

But she turned on her scintillating smile, came up the ladder to stand before Rita, and be admired by all surrounding eyes. Deliberately now, Delores posed, a beautifully slim, tall creature, the water dripping off her white satin suit and forming little puddles around her red-painted toes as if reluctant to leave the spell of her presence.

Rita jumped up. 'Mother—darling!" she sang out, breathlessly ignoring Delores' shortcomings as a parent. "What are you doing here? Why didn't you let me know you were coming?"

Delores' ice-green eyes dilated sharply while her voice cooed. "My sweet—there wasn't time to cable before I sailed—anyhow, I wanted to surprise you. But this is heavenly."

She embraced Rita warmly, kissed her cheek. "How are you—how's everything? You're looking marvelous."

It was then that Rita became aware of the tall thin man in blue trunks standing nearby, his dark eyes traveling wonderingly from mother to daughter. Rita thought immediately, "The count! The poor fellow looks astounded. He's never heard of me."

She asked significantly, "And the count. . . ." She glanced at the hovering stranger.

A little flush dyed Delores' creamy cheeks. She explained airily, "Oh, it was too bad—the count couldn't get away. Stupid business affairs kept him in Paris. This is Harry Handy—my daughter Rita. Mr. Handy and I met on the boat. Such a dreadful crossing—stormed every minute! If it hadn't been for Harry. . . ."

"Such a pleasure to meet you," put in Harry, speaking to Rita. His pin-point faded blue eyes sweeping boldly over her made her feel creepy. Besides, she never had liked so hairy-chested a man. His long thin neck looked as if it had been pulled out of his hollow, hairy chest, up through his narrow shoulder, reminding her of a very old, wise turtle, although he couldn't have been more than thirty-two.

"He's Eva Sheen's cousin—you must know her, darling, "Delores said.

Oh, didn't she! Why did Eva Sheen have to be brought into every situation that confronted her?

"Yes—I know her," replied Rita, faintly polite.

Now, not only instinctively did she dislike this Harry Handy, but his being Eva's cousin made everything wrong. Why was he trailing a woman nearly old enough to be his mother? Was it because she was a countess? But the man was plainly typed in Rita's mind.

She began talking rapidly to Delores, searching her brain for a plan of escape. She was too upset now to hang around here an instant longer than necessary. She wanted to get up to her room and think things over.

* * *

Outwardly gay, she soon managed to leave Delores and her latest masculine interest. She went at a rapid gait toward the hotel, entirely unmindful now of applauding Jimmy Blocking's prowess as a diver.

In the lounge she ran into Selia, and told her that Delores had arrived. Selia became enthusiastic.

"Really? That's marvelous! We'll ask her to lunch with us—I'll hurry down to the pool and arrange it."

She started away, flung back over her shoulder, "Better not change, dear—we're bicycling after lunch. I've got to take off five pounds, you know."

Rita nodded understandingly, laughing in spite of herself. She watched Selia sail excitedly away in her smart white wool shorts and halter to greet an old friend she hadn't specially admired until she married a title.

Luncheon in the gaudily-canopied patio was only supreme irritation to Delores. Harry Handy's eyes now were strictly for Rita, and it would be exceedingly awkward if her own daughter took him away from her. She nearly wished she had brought the count along.

The World's Greatest
PURCHASING AGENT
The American Woman!

You never saw anybody who can stretch a dollar the way she does! Everything she buys is a good value—and she never seems to get stuck with things that look good, but fall apart the first time they're used.

She'd make the Purchasing Agent of any business look sick.

She watches the advertisements in her newspaper EVERY day. She doesn't confine her buying to ONE day—she buys ANY day she can get a "good buy."

Here in Mansfield, Monday is one of her BEST-BUYING days. She reads the advertisements in the Sunday edition of The News-Journal and selects from the many extra good values offered for early-week shoppers. And on Monday, she can shop leisurely, without the fuss and furore of the Saturday crowds.

"JENNY"? "PAM"?

I'M—JENNY WARREN!?
11-11

THERE—DON'T WORRY—IT'LL ALL COME BACK—SOON!

POOR JENNY! WILL THEY EVER LEARN HER HISTORY?

LEGAL NOTICE

John Nottom and Frances Nottom, whose last known place of residence and address was Route 2, Clayton, Wisconsin, will take notice that on October 6, 1939, the undersigned filed his petition in The Common Pleas Court of Richland County, Ohio, alleging that the above named defendants have or claim to have an interest in the following described real estate:

Situated in the County of Richland, in the State of Ohio, and in the City of Mansfield and bounded and described as follows: Being lot number Thirty-seven Hundred and ninety-nine (3799) of the consecutive numberings of lnlots to the City of Mansfield, Ohio.

The undersigned further alleges that he and his predecessors in title have held the open, notorious, adverse, exclusive, continuous and actual possession of said premises for more than 21 years last past; that defendants, John Nottom and Frances Nottom, signed a quit-claim deed to plaintiff for such interest on or about May 15, 1939, but failed to appear before a Notary Public for acknowledgment of the signatures and did not have the same witnessed by two witnesses as required by law. Plaintiff has ever since sought to have this omission corrected, but with due diligence has been unable to find or contact said defendants, and that said deficiency is a cloud upon plaintiff's title to these premises.

The prayer of the petition is that the defendants and each of them may be lawfully notified of the pendency of this action and duly summoned to appear and answer herein, setting forth the nature and extent of their several claims in and to the real estate hereinbefore described; and that the Court may adjudge all of said claims to be illegal and void; that the plaintiff's title to all the premises above described may be quieted, and that the plaintiff may be found and adjudged to be the owner in fee simple of said premises and that the defendants, and each of them, and any and all persons claiming under them, may be forever enjoined and debarred from hereafter asserting any right, title, interest, claim or demand in, or to said premises or any part thereof, and for such other and further relief as is proper.

That the defendants are required to answer by November 18, 1939, and this cause will be for hearing on or any time thereafter.

HITLER RETURNS TO BLAST SCENE

Fuehrer Listens as Aid Says Explosion Taught Germans How to Hate.

"You, yourself, once formulated the aim, 'we entered the war to free ourselves and the world of a particular system.'

"That you, Mr. Chamberlain, after numerous unsuccessful encouragements finally gave the direct order for the murder was confirmed by the Daventry (England) radio station which on Nov. 8, at 2:15 p. m., declared, 'England has another secret weapon ready for Germany which should prove a great surprise for the enemy.' "

Other "points," charged that a London newspaper at midnight Nov. 8, less than three hours after the bombing, published a detailed account of the explosion and the number of casualties; that Dutch quarters had said that Britain had been agitating against Hitler for weeks "as if they had a warrant for him."

Heinrich Himmler's gestapo — the secret police—have engaged experts to make a thorough study of fragments of the bomb found in the debris, and they expected to prove the foreign origin of the bomb from the metal.

Senators Casting Critical Eyes Over Army, Navy 'Waste'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Congress may ask the army and navy to demonstrate that they are getting full value out of defense dollars, some legislators said today after a disclosure that the navy had had to correct structural defects in its newest class of destroyers.

Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.), who only recently reversed a life-time habit of voting against "big navy" appropriations, said he thought that appropriation requests should be examined minutely to determine that there was no wastage in defense expenditures.

"We certainly can't afford to waste any money now and I don't believe the need for construction speed is so great that we can't have a check on these things," he added.

Senator Smith (D.-S.C.) and Holt (D.-W.Va.) said they thought that the naval committee, of which they are members, would want to have full details on construction problems before approving any additional authorizations for expanding the fleet.
